U. S. STANDARD ROAD MARKERS AND SIGNS

SECOND EDITION

Adopted by the American Association of State Highway Officials

DECEMBER, 1931
Confirmatory Arrow

The Confirmatory Arrow M-19 A, Plate II, is to be mounted immediately below the Route Marker, M-3, to confirm an indicated deviation or branching of the route. It is for use immediately at the point where the deviation of the route occurs, rather than in advance of the branching. Directional Letters, M-4 are for general use in advance of a deviation in route.

However, where its use will cause no confusion, this Arrow, M-19 - may be used instead of the Directional Letters, M-4, below the Route Marker M-3, in advance of a deviation or branching of a route.

A Double Arrow, M-19 A Plate II, is also provided for use where a route goes in both directions.

The color scheme of this sign is the same as for the Route Marker, M-3.

Junction Signs

The Junction Sign, M-32-A, Plate II, is for use in advance of points where two or more routes meet or cross.

It should be displayed on the same standard and in combination with the numbered route markers of the road upon which it is erected and numbered markers of the road which it meets or crosses - the former appearing immediately above the junction sign and the latter immediately below. M-32-A is primarily a directional sign and not a caution sign and its color will be the same as for Route Marker M-3.

If two or more routes meet, cross or join, the necessary additional number plaques may be displayed on the same standard but below the junction sign in order of their relative importance.

Detour Markers

Two general forms of Detour Markers are provided, either of which may be used.
At intersections or forks where the marked route turns, the Marker should be erected 200 to 300 feet in advance of the fork or turn with proper directional letter "R" or "L" immediately under the Marker. In cities it may be necessary to place the markers much closer to the intersection. Where impossible to locate Marker as specified the distance may, of course, be varied and where a Warning sign, required by the conditions of alignment, precedes a Marker the Marker should be placed, if possible, not less than 200 feet from the intersection. Through topography of the same general character the distance of Markers from turns should be maintained as nearly uniform as possible.

Markers with Confirmatory Arrows

Standard Markers with Confirmatory Arrows mounted below should be erected at the point of greatest visibility at the turn to confirm the change of direction in route and reassure the driver in case he has misread or failed to notice advance Directional Marker.

It is not possible to anticipate every case of intersection or topography but the conventional layout, Plate V, indicates the general rule and the diagrams, Plates VI to XV, show a variety of conditions that may be encountered.

Overlapping Routes

Where two or more routes follow the same road, as they may for short distances, markers for all routes should generally be erected and carried on the same support. The number by which the route is officially known in the records should be placed at the top. In order to avoid repeating the large marker, the numbers below the top one may be carried on a small rectangular substitute plaque as shown by Design M-28, Plate XVII.

Two or more Route Markers should not be carried on the same post immediately in advance of a turn when only one route turns. In such cases the
